ATHLETIC WEAR MADE FROM MERINO WOOL AND SILK

Made in Germany with environmental certification

For over 35 years, Engel has been manufacturing underwear from natural fibers to the highest ecological standards - out of respect for both skin and for nature. These products have also been available for many years in the outstanding blend of merino wool and silk.

A high-performance line of athletic wear designed for sports and outdoor activities made from soft, 100% non-scratch fabric is now being produced and sold under the name ENGEL SPORTS. This line of apparel utilizes a new material made from superfine merino fibers that are only 17.5 microns thick and combined with exquisite silk, allowing an experience of ultimate comfort. The merino wool comes from certified organic animal farming in South America. The sheep are sheared according to strict animal welfare guidelines by specially trained shearers. The shearing is accompanied by direct supervision.

ENGEL SPORTS garments are manufactured in Germany in compliance with the strictest criteria for socially responsible labor practices and ecological production. The entire manufacturing process is certified under the Global Organic Textile Standard (GOTS). All ENGEL SPORTS products also received the certification Grüner Knopf.

Feel and experience nature

The combination of merino wool and silk ensures maximal breathability and protects against temperature extremes. The addition of 2% elastane in the athletic wear, shirts and tights reinforces the natural elasticity of the wool fibers and guarantees great consistency in shape during movement.

ENGEL SPORTS products provide the highest level of functionality for nearly every kind of athletic activity, both indoors and out. The outstanding characteristics of the material and the fitting design allow the garments to adapt to the body, conforming to every movement. The natural features of the wool/silk blend prevent bacteria from settling, which greatly reduces unpleasant odor caused by sweat. These garments don't need to be washed very often - airing them outdoors will make them seem like new. The wool fibers absorb UV radiation naturally, protecting the skin against the damaging effects of sunlight.

Depending on the garment, this athletic wear made from fine merino wool and silk is available in three different weights: a lighter fabric weight of 150 g/m<sup>2</sup> and the heavier and therefore warmer weights of 200 g/m<sup>2</sup> and 240 g/m<sup>2</sup>.

The lightweight all-rounder

Superfine and extremely light - with a fabric weight of only 150g/m<sup>2</sup>, these garments make an ideal base layer - the first layer that is worn directly against the skin. These stretchy, high-performance base layer pieces won't wear out and conform to every movement without restriction. Very light and yet cozy and warming, this material made from superfine merino wool and silk is supporting the functions of your skin by regulating body temperature and managing moisture.

For under and over

With a fabric weight of 200g/m<sup>2</sup>, these pieces can be worn directly against the skin or as a mid and outer layer over lighter quality depending on how cold or warm you feel. This fabric is more robust and substantial than the 150g/m<sup>2</sup> version, offering more room for air pockets that provide thermal insulation. The fine, soft blend of merino wool and silk protects against cold, insulating against temperature extremes no matter the weather conditions.
